IMAGES OF MISSION

A girl in the Manila North Cemetery. Hundreds of poor families live here, dwelling in and between the tombs and mausoleums of the city's wealthy. They are often discriminated against, and many of their children don't go to school because they're too hungry to study and they're often called "vampires" by their classmates. With support from United Methodist Women, KKFI provides classroom education and meals to kids from the cemetery at a nearby United Methodist Church.

Patricia Toe at work in a carpenter's shop in Buchanan, Liberia. The young woman is a graduate of the skills training program at the Brighter Future Children Rescue Center in Buchanan. Supported by the United Methodist Church in Germany and United Methodist Women, the center carries out rehabilitation work with ex-combatants and other war-affected children.

Reurn Reem holds a pig in the Cambodian village of Somrith. She is the leader of the Methodist women's group in the village, and received the pig as part of an income generating project sponsored by Methodist women.
